Birmingham-Southern: A Growing School for a Growing City

It's a very old saying that the only thing that remains constant is change. For Birmingham-Southern College and Birmingham, the city where BSC resides, fortunately this change has usually brought about progress and growth.

Incorporated in 1871, more than five years' after the American Civil War, Birmingham is young as big cities go. Dubbed "The Magic City" because of its rapid population growth, Birmingham has multiplied—in slightly more than a century—from 1,200 people in the beginning to a population of over 930,000 in today's metropolitan area.

Birmingham-Southern College has been an integral part of Birmingham's growth for most of the city's short but rich history. Birmingham College was established on the Hilltop in 1898. In 1918 the school merged with Southern University, another Methodist institution founded 1856 in Greensboro, Alabama. "Birmingham-Southern College, as the oldest higher education institution in the city, has a rich history due to its location and its record of teaching and learning," BSC President Neal R. Berte says. "That history is inextricably tied to the growth of the city of Birmingham."

Until the 1970's, the steel-related industries provided much of the impetus for Birmingham's physical and economic growth. Since the mid-1970's, however, steel's contribution to the economy has fallen drastically, forcing the business community to shift emphasis to new areas. The city also needed to leave behind its past of racial violence and segregation. "Birmingham has experienced a remarkable transition in many areas in recent years," Berte says. "We have shifted from a heavy-industry to a service based economy, and we have formed a more racially balanced city government, and there has been an infusion of construction activity in the downtown area."

The dozen years since the mid-1970's has been a time of change and growth for BSC as well. "Birmingham-Southern is in partnership with the larger community," Berte says. "As the city grows and develops, so does the college. All of us benefit from the new Birmingham which is developing. At BSC we have been fortunate to experience considerable growth in the last few years. We've doubled our enrollment, doubled our endowment, the faculty has increased one-third in size, and we have expanded the campus and our teaching facilities."

Seniors graduating in 1987 have seen many changes during their four years at Southern. They have watched the construction and completion of Olin Computer Science and Mathematics Center—BSC's newest building—and the demolition of Erskine Ramsay Hall—BSC's oldest building. Growth continues, as the new Marguerite Jones Harbert building goes up to fill the space left by Ramsay, and as workers complete the widening of Arkadelphia Road and construction of a new main entrance to the campus.

This continued growth depends on support and financial contributions from members of the Birmingham community, Berte says. "The support that we receive from the larger community enables us to fulfill our mission as a liberal arts institution."

Birmingham-Southern College is a growing school for a growing city. "We certainly have not arrived at the end of what we need to do," Berte says, "but I believe we have a very bright future ahead of us, both as a college and as a community."

CAFETERIA

The cafeteria has been a great source of controversy and intrigue this year. After many years of students complaining about the food service, the administration finally decided to do something about it. Committees were formed, polls were taken, and bids from other food services were taken. Just when we all thought a new food service had been chosen, Shamrock comes around and sues the school for breach of contract. Hopefully, by next year, or whenever the trial is over, we will have that new food service, but until then we will have to put up with that taco salad a little while longer.

DORM LIFE

Living on campus is one experience no student will ever forget. When else will we live with so many people the same gender, about the same age, and in such tiny rooms? When else will we have the television, the stereo, the refrigerator, the clock radio, the hot rollers, and the makeup mirror all plugged in to the same outlet? We must learn to cherish those times the people next door are having a party while we are trying to study for an 8 a.m. exam. One day we may long for someone else to be using all the hot water, borrowing all our clothes, or turning on the lights and hanging all the drawers while we're still in bed. Dorm life—something we will look back on in fond memory, but thank God we will never have to live with again.

CAMPUS CONSTRUCTION

Every year it seems the campus gets a small facelift; a new road here, a new building there. This year it gets both. The new entrance will certainly be an attractive and convenient addition to the campus. It will not only be an entrance to "one of the finest Liberal Arts Colleges in the southeast," but also a gateway to West Birmingham, so says Dr. Berte. But progress sometimes has its downfalls. The loss of Ramsay Hall was much like the loss of a close friend to some, or at least the loss of a great visual aid to some art historians. The new Harbert building should prove to be attractive as well as useful. Only half of us will get to use it since it will not be finished until the summer of 1988. Who knows what will be the next addition to the campus; maybe even more parking space? Nah.

In A World of Changing Needs . . .

President Neal R. Berte Prepares BSC to Accept Those Changes

It's a little after 6 a.m. on the Birmingham-Southern Campus. The early fall sky slowly lightens in the East as the dew and mist linger on the Hilltop before the hot day's sun burns them away.

In BSC's old gymnasium, a solitary figure trots briskly around the basketball court as the dawn's early light gradually penetrates the buildings gloom.

The early morning jogger is Birmingham-Southern's familiar leader dressed in unfamiliar attire. President Neal R. Berte is wearing shorts and a sweatshirt with BSC emblazoned across the front.

"Pretty boring isn't it," Berte says several times as he laps the court 36 times—two miles in a little more than 20 minutes, a pace few college or corporate presidents could match.

"It's mindless exercise," Berte says afterwards as he leaves the gym. "But you know sometimes I find that I do my best thinking about important things then, rather than when I'm at meetings or writing a paper or dictating a letter."

Berte exercises every morning, alternating between jogging and rowing on a rowing machine. "I think you need to exercise every day when you have a stressful job, he says. Indeed, Berte is a busy man. Today is a typical day: after his exercise, he'll head across Birmingham for a breakfast business meeting, return to campus to handle school business such as answering mail (he dictates dozens of letters daily), lunch with a new Birmingham resident, spend much of the afternoon in meetings, then attend an evening function for the college. "Sometimes," he says, "it gets to be a pretty long day."

Berte defies any notion of academic leaders being removed from the outside world. Not restricting himself to educational leadership, Berte joins the city's top business and political leaders as a board member on numerous businesses, civic groups and service organizations such as Parisian's Inc., the Greater Birmingham Chamber of Commerce and the Jefferson-Shelby division of the American Heart association.

"If the 'ivory tower' concept of the middle ages was ever true, it's not now," Berte says. "Today we need to be involved in the community. When you're the oldest higher educational institution in the city, you have a responsibility to the community." Berte finds outside activity crucial to BSC'S success, but says, "I am first and foremost an educator. That's what I'm here for."

He says his role on-campus has shifted over the last decade. "For the first four or five years the emphasis was on restoring the institution to financial stability and getting the academic program reorganized, as well as rehabilitating the college's image," he says. "The last four or five years we have been undergirding the college's liberal arts core and improving the physical plant. For the next four or five years we have to capitalize on the momentum of our improved image, to get the recognition as one of the best liberal arts colleges in the nation."

At 47, Berte has come a long way in the relatively short time since his youth. Berte grew up in St. Bernard, a small suburb of Cincinnati, Ohio. "It was very much a middle-to-lower-income family town," he says. "It was very blue-collar—about a third of the community worked for Proctor and Gamble." Berte's father owned and operated a dry-cleaning business in St. Bernard and his mother was a secretary in a Cincinnati firm.

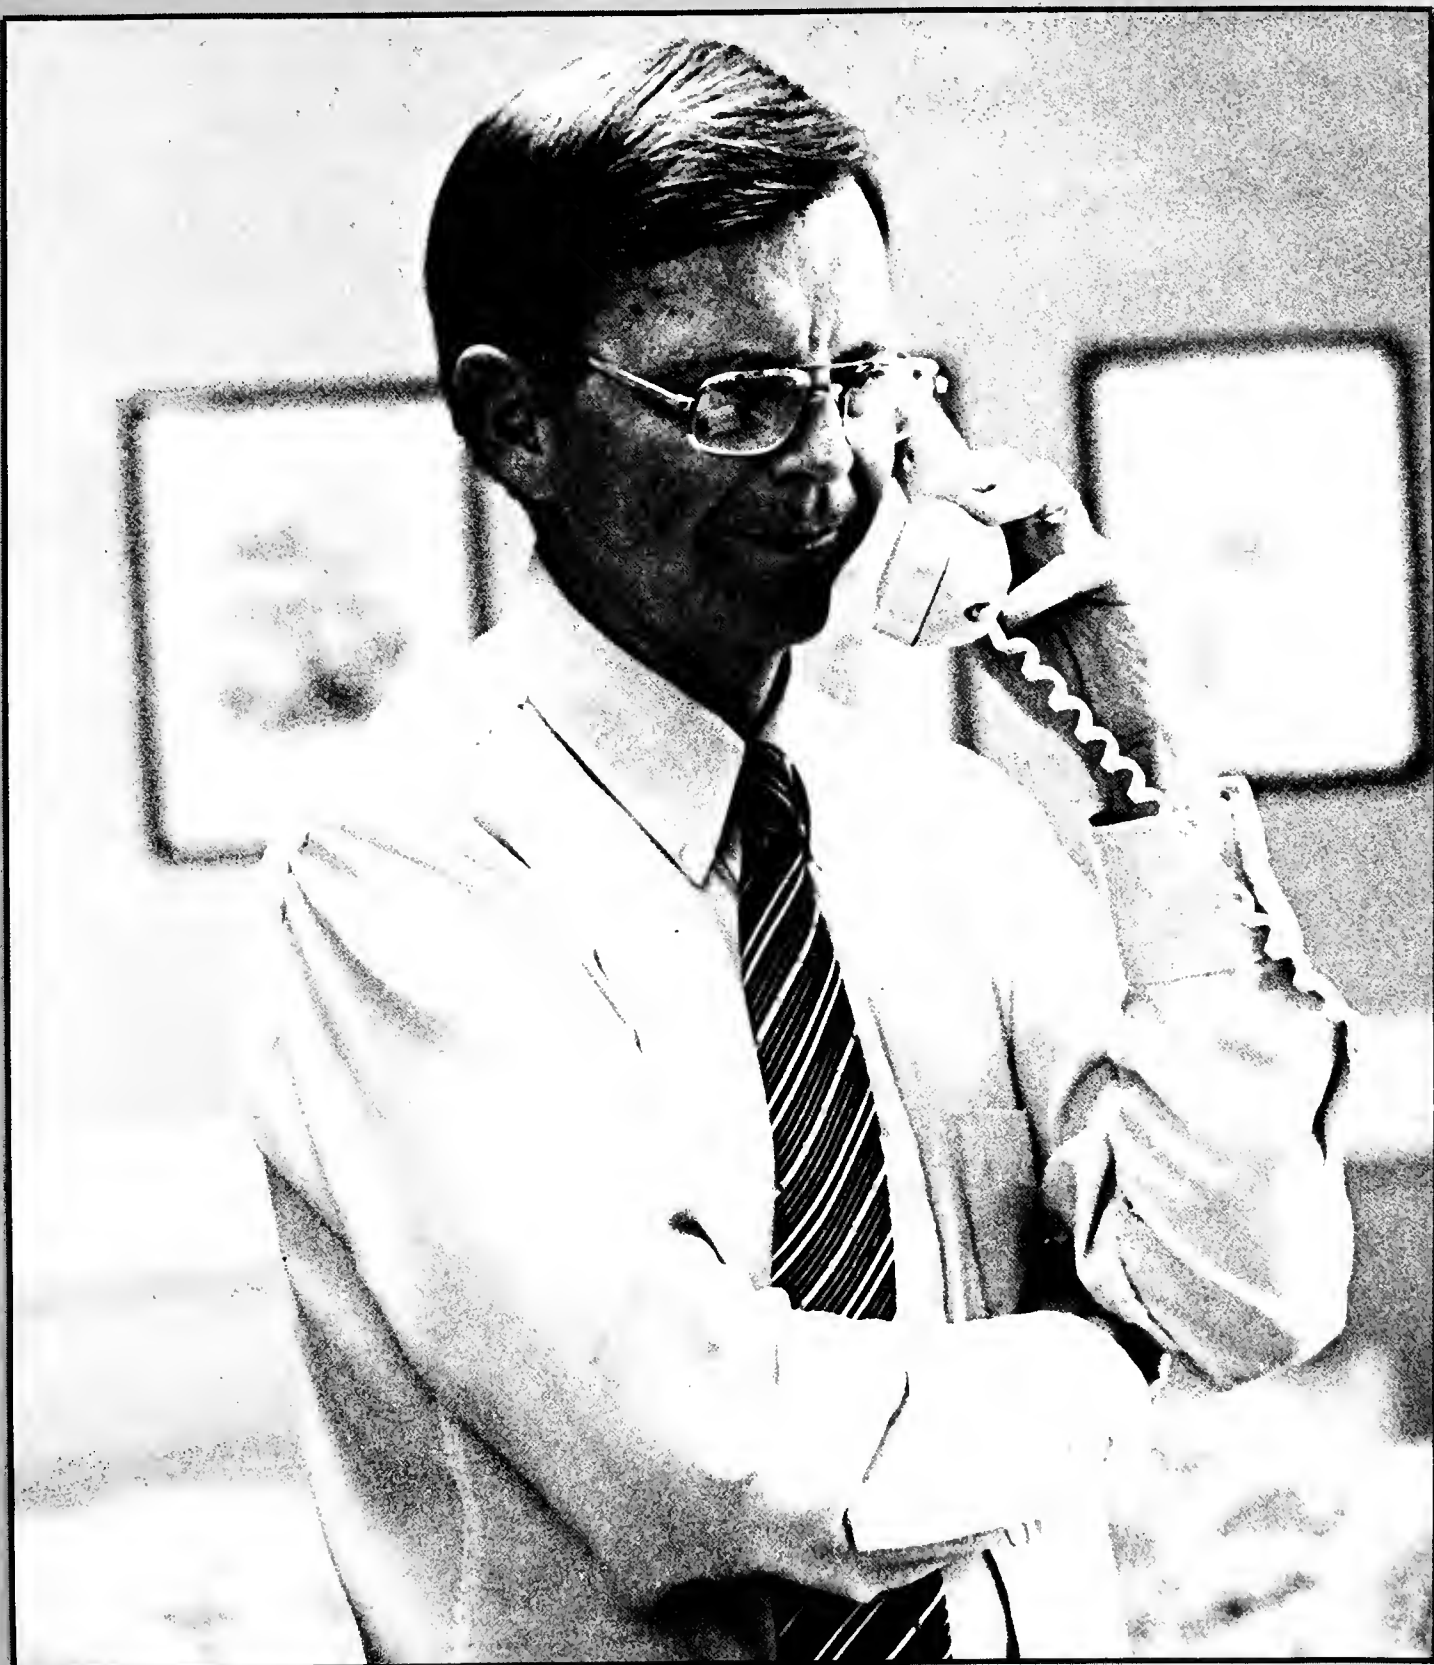

Berte stayed home for college, attending the University of Cincinnati all the way through his B.S.

and M.S. in political science. He involved himself on campus and displayed his propensity for leadership as president of the junior and senior classes and as a newspaper writer and business manager. After receiving his master's, Berte received a Rockefeller Foundation Fellowship to seminary. He attended Union Theological Seminary in New York City. His experiences there convinced him to choose college administration over ministry. He married Anne, and they returned to the University of Cincinnati, where he entered a doctoral program in counseling, with minors in administration and political science. He completed his thesis, a comparative study of international students at Cincinnati and other institutions, in 1965.

Berte made two work stops before coming to the University of Alabama in 1970. In Tuscaloosa he was dean and vice-president of New College. He left there to take the helm at BSC on February 1, 1976, at age 35. After 11 years on the Hilltop, Berte says he had his family are still happy here. "I really enjoy working with people, and taking the mission of the college and trying to mobilize the resources in such a way to provide an educational experience. I enjoy immensely the interaction with students and faculty."

Berte isn't modest about his accomplishments, but he refuses to take credit for BSC's growth and improvement. "At best I have been sort of a traffic cop pulling things together. Again I think it's the quality of the faculty and students who have been the saving grace—it's easy for people to focus the good, and the bad, on the office of the president, but it's really no one person."

Organizational Information

The key to enjoying college is to make it a well-balanced experience. A student who attends college without taking part in some organizations misses out on half of the college experience. No matter what we do in life, we will all be dealing with people at one time or another. Working together as a group towards common goals teaches us a great deal about real life and real life obstacles, not to mention the fact that these organizations enable us to meet new friends with common interests. In this section, we have tried to represent a large sampling of organizations and honoraries on campus. Below we have listed each of the honoraries and organizations shown on the previous pages with a short explanation of their purpose.

HONORARIES

Honoraries acknowledge scholastic excellence and interest in certain areas.

Alpha Epsilon Delta—Pre-Medical Curriculum
Alpha Lambda Delta—Freshman
Beta Beta Beta—Biology
Kappa Delta Epsilon—Education
Kappa Mu Epsilon—Mathematics
Mortar Board—Leadership and Scholarship for Juniors
Omicron Delta Kappa—Leadership and Scholarship for Juniors and Seniors
Phi Eta Sigma—Freshman
Phi Sigma Iota—Foreign Languages
Psi Chi—Psychology
Sigma Tau Delta—English

ORGANIZATIONS

MORE STUDENT LIFE

I'VE GOT SO MUCH TO DO!

7:00 AM Friday—My alarm sounds and jars me from bed. I hate the morning. I get dressed after my shower and grab my book bag.

7:45 AM—I'm in the cafeteria at the fraternity table taking about tonight's party. Oh, I got to get a date for tonight. I stroll across to my favorite sorority table and sweet talk myself a date. Actually, I did everything short of getting on my knees.

8:15 AM—My Biology professor informs us that we have a four chapter exam Monday. I've got to start studying because I need an "A".

9:20 AM—I run into my Chemistry class late because Biology was held over. What a course load. I don't know if I'll make it through this year.

11:00 AM—I'm in the library working on a huge term paper for English. This is my last English class. The work is just too hard and boring.

12:30 PM—The cafeteria lines are so long. But, I have to eat now 'cause I want to start studying for my Bio. test and type my paper.

2:30 PM—All the terminals are busy in the computer lab. I wait ten minutes and one opens up. It will take at least an hour and half to finish this paper. I'm a lousy typist.

4:30 PM—I'm at the fraternity house emptying trash cans and cleaning up for the party.

6:00 PM—Friday night, fish night in the caf. I see my date and remind her about the party. "No I didn't forget."

6:45 PM—Shower and shave soon but first I have to pick out my clothes. That's a tacky outfit. I pick a different shirt. Girls are hard to please. I guess guys are too.

7:30 PM—I'm out of the shower and dressed for the party. I'm walking out the door when the phone rings. It's my mom. She calls too much. "I'm in a hurry, mom. I'll call you back in a few nimites from the frat house. Big party tonight."

9:00 PM—"I'm sorry it took me so long to call back." The band is great. My date's having a blast. She's not the only one. What's that mom?" "No I don't think I can come home for the weekend. I've got so much to do."

GALA 8

Birmingham-Southern College was the sight of a prestigious gathering of women again this year. The college sponsored its annual Gala during May. Gala 8, keeping with tradition, was a fine success this year. The Gala 8 committee chose twelve very deserving recipients for its honors this year. Those honored were Betty Beale, Donna de Varona, Katherine Dunham, Anne Sutherland Fuchs, Betty Furness, Dorothy Gillespie, Dr. Mathilde Krim, Mary Wells Lawrence, Azie Taylor Morton, Carroll Petrie, Dinah Shore, and Lesley Stahl. Each woman was honored for her particular accomplishments in her chosen field of endeavor. With the tremendous support of the faculty, staff, and students of Birmingham-Southern as well as committee members and volunteers this year's Gala was a huge success.

WHERE DO WE GO?

It's Friday pushin' evening, working day is done.
Hard week of classes over, now I'm looking for some fun.
Gonna grab a few of my friends
And take them for a ride
Right down the street right close to home
To a place they call "The Tide".

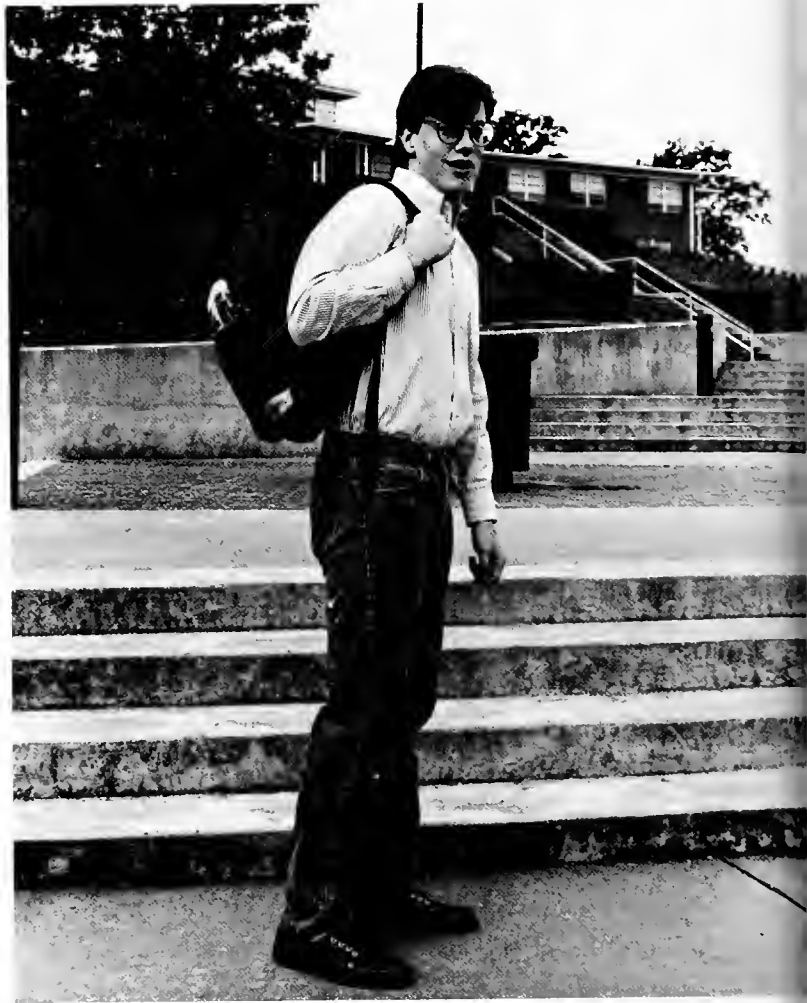

What's an overworked 'Southern student to do when the studying is (well, almost) done? What more could one ask for than the BSC "annex", the Tide and Tiger? At the Tide a student's stress (and even consciousness) disappears with the surroundings (genuine shrine to Bear Bryant), the atmosphere (George Jones and Merle Haggard), the menu (cheap pitchers and chili), nightly activities (quarters, jet, Mexican, etc.), and the clientele (friends and others). The real appeal of the Tide and Tiger is not the atmosphere, the menu, or even the Bear Bryant mementos, but the fact that it is the closest thing to a 'Southern gathering place. In the absence of planned activities, there's a place to count on for a little social action. Besides, where else in Birmingham can you hear the Rolling Stones and Conway Twitty on the same quarter?

"Gonna toss dollar beers, make a few trips to the stalls.
Don't matter much anyhow, I can always read the walls.
Seem to fit right in at the place, no matter how I roam
God knows its true the 'Tide and Tiger'
Has got to be my second home."—from "The Tide Song"
by Fentress Seagroves

FASHION

Fashion on the Hilltop is a complicated issue. Most students live out of a closet and a couple of drawers. It's hard to get up for an 8:00 'clock class in Organic Chemistry and care about how you look. However, fashion trends do surface in the midst of the turmoil a college student goes through at Southern. The campus saw a return to sixties and seventies clothing, Tie-dyed shirts and bleached and torn jeans were prominent styles. Designer clothing was still popular. Names like Ralph Lauren, Liz Claiborne, Georges Marciano, and Perry Ellis were on everyone's clothes. Guess and Levis were big jeans favorites while Polo and Forenza ranked high in shirts. New favorites in clothing were Outback Red and Coca Cola clothing. Boxer shorts and Swatch watches were still popular among girls and guys. Duckhead pants and Jams were still hot items and a new trend was seen: golf hats for guys. Wrinkled, though a mother's nightmare, was the standard since most students don't have time to iron. It is evident from the fashion on the Hilltop that most people are trying to strike a happy medium between busy, bothered and stressed college student and GQ or Vogue fashion statements. Apparently, fashion on the Hilltop is in the eye of the beholder.

THE INTERIM EXPERIENCE

Birmingham-Southern offers its students a unique experience between their Fall and Spring terms. In January students are required to take one course in discipline offered at 'Southern. These courses are different and are classes that are not usually offered at the school. The experience is unique in that most of the students would never have a chance to take such classes if not offered during the Interim. The classes are one-of-a-kind type classes that for some will come only once in their lifetime. The Interim program at 'Southern can be divided into two categories: on-campus projects and off-campus experiences.

OFF-CAMPUS EXPERIENCES

This type of interim offers students another unique opportunity. That is to learn while traveling abroad. This year trips were offered to Australia for business, Costa Rica for Spanish language studies, and France and Belgium for foreign language study. The chance to travel for some was a once in a lifetime experience. The travel and learning opportunity adds to the Interim Experience.

Also, available to students was the chance to go to Tennessee for a science minimester or to Florida for an interim called Habitats for Humanity. The Interim Experience is one that should be treasured by BSC students. Where else would students get such a unique chance to learn in this way?

ON-CAMPUS PROJECTS

This year the on-campus projects included interims in Photographic Chemistry, Histology, Ada Programming Language, and Performance Practicum in Dance just to name a few. A wide variety of courses was available for students to choose from. Virtually every professor teaches some interim at 'Southern each year. Students had the chance to learn something they may never get to again. This is the value of the Interim Experience.

Also, available to the student are contracted internships and off-campus work supervised by a faculty member. Contracted internships allow students to get work experience in their chosen field. Off-campus interims allow students to use their own imagination to create a unique learning opportunity under the guidance of a professor. These add to the interim possibilities.

HOMECOMING 1987

The Birmingham-Southern Panthers played in their homecoming game on February 7, 1987. The Panthers met the tough Athens State Panthers who were ranked first in the division. The game turned out well for 'Southern as the team defeated Athens 76-58. Support for the game was strong with fraternities and sororities competing for the Spirit Trophy which was given to the group proving the most spirit during various events. Activities included a lawn decoration contest and cafeteria decoration contest. KA won the trophy this year with SN and SAE following. The Homecoming Queen was Christy Bauman for 1987. Homecoming was a big success for all those involved.

AWARDS DAY

Keeping with tradition, the faculty and administration of the school set aside a day to honor some of BSC's finest students. That day was Awards Day 1987. Announcements are made about the various student organizations and those students chosen to reside on them. Awards are also given and are mainly non-academic. Two new awards were also announced this year. They were the Genzan Chiba Outstanding International Student Award and the "Southern Volunteer Services" Award. Those honored on this day are, truly, the pride of BSC.

HONORS DAY

The annual Honors Day program was held in May this year. Seniors have their first chance to parade in their cap and gown along with the distinguished faculty. This year's program consisted of the awarding of an honorary degree, presenting campus wide honors, and, finally, the announcement of senior awards and honors. The Honors Day program is traditionally an opportunity to see BSC at its best.

ALPHA CHI OMEGA

Alpha Chi Omega was founded at DePaul University in 1985. The Alpha Omega Chapter of the sorority was founded on the Birmingham-Southern College campus in 1926. Their philanthropies are Cystic Fibrosis Foundation, Easter Seals, and the McDowell Colony, which is an artist retreat, Alpha Chi Omega's colors are scarlet and olive green. Their flower is the red carnation and their jewel is the pearl.

ALPHA KAPPA ALPHA

The Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority was founded in 1908 at Howard University by nine young women. The Nu Delta Chapter of Alpha Kappa Alpha was founded at Birmingham Southern in 1979. Alpha Kappa Alpha's colors are salmon pink and apple green. Their jewel is the pearl and their flower is the tea rose.

ALPHA OMICROM PI

Alpha Omicron Pi Sorority was founded at Barnard College in 1897. The founders were Jessie Wallace Hughan, Helen St. Clair (Mullan), Stella George Stern (Perry), and Elizabeth (Bess) Heywood Wyman. Tau Delta at Birmingham-Southern College became the first Alabama chapter in 1925. Tau Delta's philanthropy is arthritis research. Their color is cardinal (Red and White) and their jewel is the ruby.

KAPPA DELTA

The Alpha Upsilon Chapter of Kappa Delta was founded on February 22, 1930. The colors of Kappa Delta are green and white, and the mascot is the Katy-did. The Kappa Delta sorority at Birmingham-Southern College has a long and wonderful history. It is a group of girls whose strong friendships are based on Christian values. The Kappa Delta sisterhood is like a family with each member caring for the others. Kappa Deltas strive to achieve their highest potential in all endeavors, whether they be academic or extracurricular activities. Many Kappa Deltas are members of organizations and are involved in projects and events on campus. The projects and events Kappa Delta is involved with include selling Ghost-Grams for Halloween, working as volunteers at the Ronald McDonald House, and the Shamrock Project. Another big event for the Kappa Deltas on campus is the annual Swing-a-thon, which also raises money for the prevention of child abuse. Alpha Upsilon's past and present are very special, and both lay a strong foundation for the future members of Kappa Delta.

PI BETA PHI

Pi Beta Phi Fraternity was founded as the first national fraternity for women in 1867. The Alabama Alpha Chapter was founded in 1927. Pi Beta Phi is the sole support of the Arrowmont School of Arts and Crafts and the Arrowcraft Shop in Gatlinburg, Tennessee. The fraternity symbol is the golden arrow; the unofficial symbol is the angel. Pi Beta Phi's colors are wine and silver-blue.

ZETA TAU ALPHA

Zeta Tau Alpha was founded by nine young women in Farmville, Virginia in 1898. The Alpha Nu Chapter was formed at Birmingham-Southern in 1925 and is the 38th chapter. Their colors are turquoise blue and silver grey and their jewel is the pearl. The white violet is their flower. The Zetas at B.S.C. are a diverse crowd, actively involved in a number of organizations. Our philanthropy is the Association of Retarded Citizens. This year our fund-raising efforts included ARC-AID, a band party featuring Western Decadence. It is important to us for people to see that our founding principle is love, "the greatest of all things."

ALPHA PHI ALPHA

Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity, Inc. was founded on Dec. 6, 1906 by seven young men at Cornell University. Since its beginnings APhiA has founded chapters not only in the U.S. but also in Europe, the Bahamas, and the Virgin Islands. Over 85,000 men have joined the ranks of such great men as Dr. Martin L. King Jr., Justice Thurgood Marshall, and Mayor Andrew Young. The Omicron Sigma Chapter of Alpha Phi Alpha was founded at 'Southern on Nov. 12, 1982. The brothers of APhiA strive to be "Servants of Mankind".

ALPHA TAU OMEGA

Alpha Tau Omega Fraternity was founded on September 11, 1865 in Richmond, Virginia. The Beta Beta Chapter was installed at Southern on March 28, 1885. The brothers of ATO are brothers by choice not by birth. This is a strong belief that is important to all the men who choose to wear the ATO badge. They strive to achieve academic excellence and social fulfillment. Brothers hold official positions in the school and belong to numerous service organizations. One of the primary goals of ATO is to teach leadership skills and encourage fellowship among brothers. The Beta Beta Chapter has a proud tradition that spans more than a century here at B.S.C. They have stuck together through hard times and prosperous times. The spirit of what ATO is will be in every member for the rest of his life. Thus, the phrase "ATO for a Lifetime" guides the brothers of ATO. The future for ATO is bright and the next century should be better than the last.

KAPPA ALPHA ORDER

The Kappa Alpha Order is a fraternal organization founded by James Wood, William Scott, Stanhope Scott, and William Walsh in 1865 on the campus of Washington College in Lexington, Virginia. The fraternity grew into a military order whose purpose is to keep alive those chivalrous ideas and virtues such as reverence toward God and respect for women. Their virtues have been traditional characteristics of Southern gentlemen. The roll model for the order is Robert E. Lee who was the president of the college where the order was founded. He is considered the spiritual founder of the order although he never joined. Each chapter takes pride in their heritage and traditions that have made their fraternity one of the best in the nation.

SIGMA ALPHA EPSILON

Sigma Alpha Epsilon was founded on March 9, 1856 at the University of Alabama and has remained one of the nation's most respected fraternities. The Alabama Iota Chapter was established at Birmingham-Southern on November 23, 1878. Through continuous efforts towards scholarship, athletics, campus involvement, and community service they have upheld the tradition of excellence SAE enjoys. Recently, the Alabama Iota Chapter had the distinction of being voted SAE's number one chapter for two consecutive years, an honor no other chapter has achieved. Through hard work and dedication to their chapter, they strive to maintain the high ideals and high standards which are synonymous with SAE.

SIGMA NU

Sigma Nu was established in 1869 at Virginia Military Institute in Lexington, VA. The three founders were cadets who believed in the principle of honor and so called the Sigma Nu Fraternity the Legion of Honor. The Lambda Theta chapter at Birmingham-Southern has upheld this tradition of honor. Although Sigma Nu has been on campus for just one year, it has made impressive accomplishments. It has grown from seven core members to thirty members. Sigma Nu was awarded the Phi Eta Sigma award for the highest fraternity pledge class G.P.A. They placed second in the homecoming competition, third place in Greek Week with first place in Greek Sing, and received the best skit award in Mr. Hilltopper. The highlight of the year was the chartering of Lambda Theta Chapter as the two hundred thirty-eighth Sigma Nu chapter. The members of Sigma Nu are active in the SGA, Alpha Phi Omega, Triangle Club, PSSO, and music groups. After a successful first year, Sigma Nu is looking forward to an excellent future on the Hilltop.

THETA CHI

Theta Chi Fraternity was founded at Norwich University in Vermont on April 10, 1856. Beta Xi Chapter was installed here at 'Southern on May 23, 1942. Theta Chi encourages members to extend a helping hand to those who need it. They are involved in school service with members on Student Judiciary, P.S.S.O., Triangle Club, S.G.A., and other service organizations. The brothers of Theta Chi support the Sheriff's Boys Ranch with an annual fund raiser and, more importantly, spend time with the kids on Saturday afternoons. They also work for Special Olympics. The brothers of Theta Chi also strive to gain academic excellence, consistently maintaining a high average and placing members in distinguished honoraries, including Phi Beta Kappa. Excellence on the field as well as in the classroom is a high priority with Theta Chi. They won the All-Sports Trophy last year and have won Greek Week for the past several years. All these achievements pale in comparison to its most important factor: brotherhood. Theta Chi's live, play, and work together in an atmosphere of great friendship. They teach their members truth, temperance, and tolerance while inspiring friendships that will last a lifetime. Theta Chi will continue its rich tradition in the future, never ceasing in its efforts to grow and improve. Every man who has worn the military red and white of Theta Chi became a better man because of it, and Theta Chi will continue to nurture excellence in its members, because Theta Chi is for life.

GREEK ENJOY BEING GREEK

Take five fraternities and six sororities. Add water in the form of relays in the pool. Mix in egg tosses and whipped cream relays. Blend late nights of practice for Greek Sing. Stir well. Bake at 350° for four days and four nights. What do you get GREEK WEEK '87.

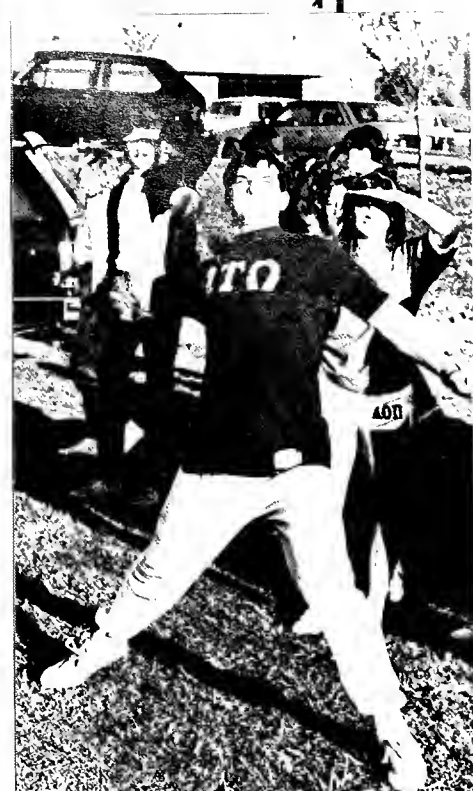

The week started off as fraternities and sororities battled in the College Pool during the water relays. Tuesday saw Greeks rolling up their sleeves to give blood for the American Red Cross. Approximately 300 Greeks participated in the drive with ZTA and ATO having the highest percentage of members giving. Tuesday evening saw numerous processions for the Greek God and Goddess competition. Each organization paraded its candidate across the Simpson stage with AOPi's Millie Murphee and SAE's David Rice capturing the imagination of the judges as they were crowned 1987's Greek God and Greek Goddess. Wednesday brought a new competition to the Greek Week, sidewalk chalk art. Groups relied on their most artistic members to create murals on the library plaza sidewalks. The event was won by ZTA and SAE.

The Greek Games and a picnic were held on the intramural fields. Fraternity and sorority members endured the tug-of-war, mile relay, and softball throw. The whipped cream relay, egg toss, chicken relay, and sack race brought laughter to the games. AOPi and Theta Chi took first place honors in the field events. The week culminated with the Greek Sing competition in Munger. AOPi won the sorority division with their salute to Disney and SN won the fraternity division with a medley of fifties tunes.

Top winners for the week were AOPi and Theta Chi. They were followed by ZTA and KA. Third place went to AXO and SN. A new honor was announced this year. The Greek Week Committee selected a Greek Man and Woman of the Year based on their contributions to the Greek System and campus community. AXO's Debbie Shih and KA's James Pennington were the first recipients of the award. This marked the end of yet another exciting Greek Week.

INTRAMURALS Greeks and Independents in Action

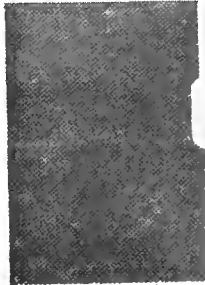

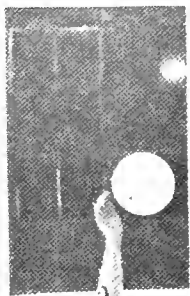

Competition was fierce this year as Greeks and Independents went head to head. The Independents showed a great deal of power in all sports this year showing that they will be a substantial force to be reckoned with next year. The fraternities and sororities participated in the competitions with large groups present at all games. It was a joy to see so many participants from each group offering support or athletic talents in the friendly competitions. Theta Chi came out on top of the football competition this season. Alpha Omicron Pi managed to win both the girls volleyball and basketball titles. Sigma Alpha Epsilon won the mens volleyball title. The fraternities fell at the hands of the Independent team in B league basketball and the Blue Raiders, a faculty and staff team, in the A league. Mike Gedgoudas took the racquetball title and Michael Miller took the 8-ball title this year. Congratulations are in order for all teams and individuals who participated this year and especially for those who won. Also, congratulations are due to Mike Robinson for coordinating another great year of Intramural Sports.

SOCCER

With a 9 win, loss, 4 tie record, the BSC Soccer team certainly came out a winner this year. Their record speaks for itself—they were the SEC champs, won the division I Invitational Tournament at the University of North Carolina—Asheville. The team was also the district 27 runner-up. Impressively, they also had five Academic All-Americans: John Dalton, Steve Rueve, Kurt Senn, Randy Riehl, and David Bryant. They also had one All-American, George Harrell.

The low point of the season seemed never ending—a long string of injuries that made it take out uncertain who would be able to play each game. The high point of the season was being able to overcome these injuries, resulting in the team winning the SEC championship. Nothing could be a better testament to the teamwork and dedication of the team than to be able to overcome the injuries they sustained.

The soccer program is improving steadily at BSC. A nationally reknown camp is being organized for this summer. West Germany's Timo Zahnleiter (head coach at Frankfurt), Graham Roberts, an English National player, and Chris Waddle of Rite English First Division will attend. Moreover, the BSC soccer team will be touring West and East Germany playing exhibition games this summer. Such an experience will certainly increase 'Southern's chances of reaching the national tournament next fall.

BASEBALL

The Panther baseball team finished the year with a 30-18 record. The team just missed a championship game when they came up short in the District 27 Tournament in Montgomery. Leaders this year offensively for 'Southern included Chris Brown with a .345 average, Trent Lowery with a .350 average, and Bill Bradley with a .329 average. Senior, Keith Raisanen, led the Panthers in many offensive categories including batting average with a .369 average, RBI's with 49, and homeruns with 10 round trippers. The team was led defensively by Bill Bradley, Jimmy Gardiner, Will Nowell, Jack Moore, Rick Henderson, and Keith Raisanen. The pitching staff was strong this year. Marc North, Marcos Lopez, Daren Burns, Jeff Crawford, and Paul Lewis all saw time on the mound. With many of this years players returning in 1988 the Panthers can look forward to another winning year.

TENNIS

The BSC tennis team, while never too much in the limelight here on campus, certainly earn their laurels. The girls' team won the USM Invitational, while the guys' team won the Jeff State Indoor Doubles Tournament. Their recent achievements include the girls holding the title of district champs for the past six years. They have also gone to nationals six years in a row. The guys went to nationals last year and were ranked 24th in the country. The girls' team was ranked 14th. Both have been ranked in the top twenty of NAIA schools in the nation all year long. Perhaps all of this achievement can be attributed in no small measure to the coaching. Al Jones, the assistant coach, has been coaching at 'Southern for nine years and has been playing and coaching for a grand total of 60 years. Ann Dielen, the head coach, has been here at 'Southern for 11 years. Both offer the experience, encouragement and education which are obviously just what the teams need to continue their winning records.

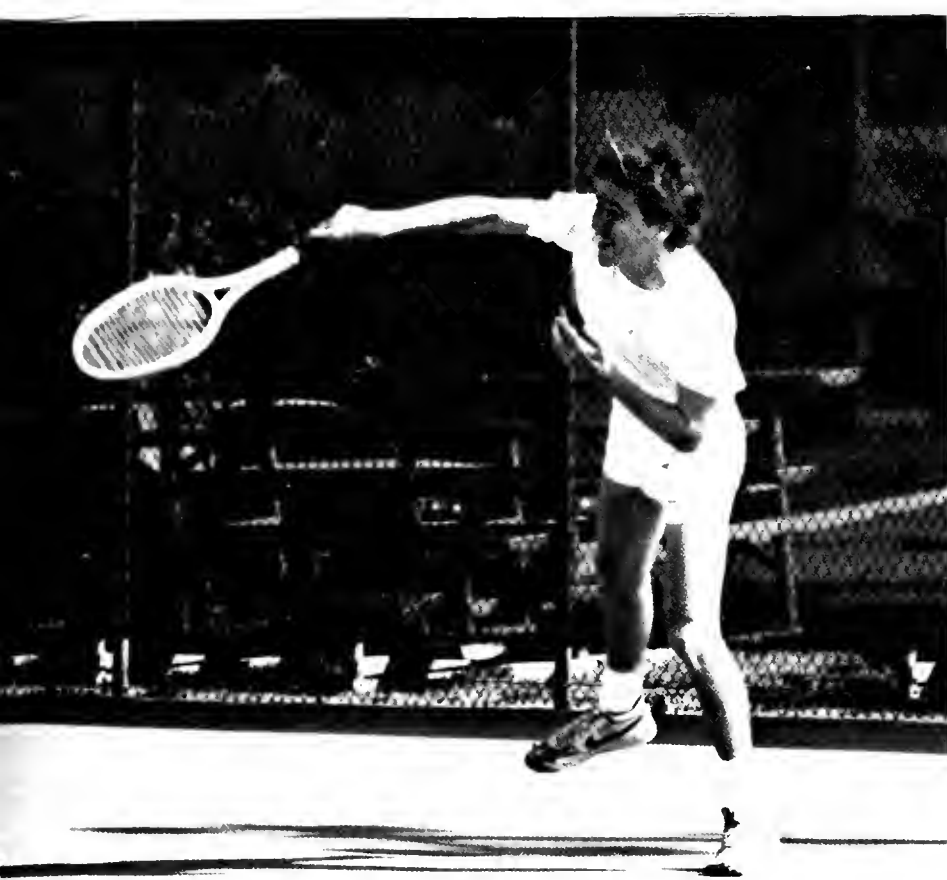

The Tennis team had a good year in 1986-87. The women's team finished the year with a 12-6 record. The men's team ended up with a 8-8 record. Those records were before the NAIA National Tournament in May. Leaving the team this year are seniors Victor Martinez for the men and Erin Kuehn, Heather Comfort, and Nancy Griffith for the women. The men's team will have several returning players next year since they lost only one senior. Those returning players next year since they lost only one senior. Those returning are juniors; Mark Viner and Chris Ellis; sophomores; Danny Matuszak, Chris Egan, Chris Parker, and Paul Rogers; and freshmen; Earl Baumgardner, Chuck Thompson, and Brian Rahaley. Returning for the women's team are a junior; Fernanda Maruri; sophomores; Kathi Rogers and Bernadette Peters; and freshmen; Vicky Feldman and Michele Dressman. The outlook for the 1988 season is good with the number of veterans returning on both teams. It looks as though the panther tennis program is doing well.

CHEERLEADERS

They practice long hours, often missing classes to accompany the basketball team to out of town games; they choreograph dances for homecoming routines, and stay excited, supporting the team even on those rare occasions when things don't look so good. They are the Birmingham-Southern Cheerleaders.

Although it may look like nothing but fun out there, to those of us who sit in the stands, but it really reflects a lot of individual and group effort. What may appear to be effortless enthusiasm has been carefully practiced for up to two hours a day. The girls are also involved in aerobic and weight training programs to keep up good physical fitness. Cheerleaders must try out from year to year, so they have to stay in top shape; the judges are looking for girls who will best represent BSC.

Only three of the girls have been on the squad for more than a year, and they are sophomores Louise Randolph, Rhonda Flynn (head), and Gena Ledford (head). The other members of the squad are senior Deann Everage, sophomores Gina Thomas, Tracy German, and Bonnie Brock, and freshmen Melinda Jackson, Wendy DeMent, and Janna Barrett. The mascot, Rowdy the Panther, is Brannon Bowman, and Mike Robinson is the sponsor.

'SOUTHERN STARS

An outstanding addition was made this year to the groups of supporters of the Birmingham-Southern athletic program. This addition was a dance team called the 'Southern Stars. The team was made up of girls who tried out at the beginning of the year for a group that was to perform at halftime during basketball games and represent the school. That is exactly what the girls did. The girls performed dance routines at the games and at pep rallies. The dances were choreographed by Tammy Townes of Vestavia High Schools. The team was led by captains Ann Eason and Elizabeth Kennedy. Sixteen girls made up the dance team and all should be proud of their first year success. We are looking forward to the dance team's continued success.

FINE ARTS

The faculty and students in the Art Department had a very rewarding year in 1986-87. Exhibitions included a painted metal sculpture by Gary Blackburn of Montgomery, paintings by Mark Messersmith of Florida State University, cibachrome photography by Irene Thames of Birmingham and Cecil Rones of Hattiesburg, Mississippi, and construction/environmental sculpture by local artists Pamela Venz and Lamar Smith. The faculty held the exhibition, "Shelton, Tucker, and Friends," which included adjunct members Steve Cole, Ken Hibbs, Irene Thames, and Pamela Venz.

Painting professor Linda Burgess showed paintings at the A.I.R. Gallery while on sabbatical leave in New York. Steve Cole had work accepted at the Tallahassee and Clemson National Juried Exhibitions. Bob Shelton was included in the Meridian Bistate Annual and Alabama Works on Paper Shows. Bob Tucker showed works at Summerhill Gallery in Durham, N.C. and Maralyn Wilson Gallery. Pam Venz was invited to participate in "Combination Talents", an exhibition sponsored by Florida State University. Lloyd Slone received his M.A. in Curriculum from the University of Alabama in Birmingham.

The Art Students League sponsored a guest speaker series which included slide lectures by Bob Tucker, Steve Cole, Bob Shelton, Pam Venz, and Lloyd Slone. The Annual Art Jam, though shortened by rain, was well attended. The Juried Student Show award winners were Linda Mason, Rachel Southworth, Sandra Hamm, Rob Caslin, and Whitney Hamilton. J.T. Farmer, Whitney Hamilton, Linda Mason, and Randy Gachet were honored with an April show since they are senior art students.

Linda Mason had a solo exhibition at the Jewish Community Center and J.T. Farmer was included in a group show at the Atcheson Gallery. J.T. and Randy will join former students Clarke Stallworth and Pat-Pat Woodward in an upcoming curated show at the Space 111 Gallery. Whitney Hamilton has accepted for graduate study at the Pratt Institute in Brooklyn, N.Y. Artist and Gala honoree, Dorothy Gillespie joined the B.S.C. printmaking class for a final critique in May. This brought to an end another great year in the B.S.C. Art Department.

DANCE RECITAL

CONCERT CHOIR

The Birmingham-Southern College Concert Choir, under the direction of Dr. Hugh Thomas, had a brightly shining year of contrast. In appearances for churches, chapel services, community organizations, scholarship days, orientation, and graduation the nationally recognized choir offered a range of sounds from Baroque, Classical, Romantic, and Twentieth Century periods.

Some special performances highlighted the season. The Concert Choir, along with the Southern Chorale and the Alumni Choir, participated in the 50th Annual Christmas Carol Service. The choir was invited to perform "Les Noces" for the American Choral Director's Association Convention in San Antonio, Texas. The choir, also, performed the piece at the Spring Dance Recital. The year came to an exciting close with the performance of "Solemn Vespers" for the faculty and students.

Miss B.S.C. Pageant 1987

This year's pageant was filled with the same sort of ladies that have been the pride of 'Southern for many years. These 'Southern Belles express the beauty and talent abundantly available on the Hilltop. This year the pageant featured thirteen young ladies who prove that 'Southern women are the fairest in all the world. Well, at least the 'Southern gents think they are. The winner in the talent category this year was Whitney Hamilton who made an art presentation. The new Miss B.S.C. is Lesli Blake of Knoxville, Tennessee. Lesli performed a Judy Garland medley for her talent exposition. Shannon O'Meara was first runner-up. Pam Jones was second, Holly Renneker was third, and Whitney Hamilton was fourth. All the ladies who participated in the Miss B.S.C. Pageant 1987 should be congratulated. They are, indeed, the pride of B.S.C.

The Seventh Annual Writers' Conference was held at 'Southern this year and featured Edward Albee. Albee is a two-time Pulitzer Prize-winning author, playwright, and dramatist. He received the Pulitzer Prize for his plays, A Delicate Balance and Seascape. His most famous work in Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf. Also, featured at the conference were Jimmy Breslin, Ellen Gilchrist, Howard Nemerov, Eugene Winick, Ben Conway, Bob Houston, Katie Lyle, Ric Patterson, and Alan Rinzler.

WRITERS'

CONFERENCE

The Conference also hosted a number of distinguished faculty. Among these were Randy Blythe, Fred Bonnie, Mary Ward Brown, Pamela Carmell, Charles Henley, David Donaldson, Kathy English, Bernie Feld, Elaine Frederickson, John Logue, Janet McAdams, Marianne Merrill Moates, Eric Olson, Barbara Olson, Alan Perlis, Dale Short, R.T. Smith, Ellen Sullivan and Sue Walker. These writers and related professionals taught seminars at the conference.

Nobel Peace Prize Winner Lectures at the Hilltop

On March 5, 1987 the campus of Birmingham-Southern was the sight of a rare visit by a Nobel Prize recipient. Mr. Elie Wiesel graced the school with a lecture in Bill Battle Coliseum that drew more attention from students than most of Southern's basketball games. The attention was not undeserved. Mr. Wiesel, Chairman of the United States Holocaust Memorial Council, is the recipient of the 1986 Liberty Award. In recognition of his humanitarian efforts and outstanding contributions to world peace and human rights, the United States Congress awarded Mr. Wiesel the Congressional Gold Medal in 1985. President Francois Mitterand named Mr. Wiesel a Commander in the French Legion of Honor. On October 14, 1986, he was named the winner of the Nobel Peace Prize. His more than twenty books and two plays probe the meaning of the Holocaust and portray Biblical, Rabbinic, and Hassidic figures. Among Wiesel's works available at the B.S.C. Library are Night, The Fifth Son, Five Biblical Portraits, and Dawn. Wiesel's lecture at the school was entitled "What Ancient Masters Could Teach Our Generation" and was made possible by the Program in Judaic Studies and Middle Eastern Culture here at Birmingham-Southern.

Who's Who ## IN MEMORY OF . . .

“Truly I say to you, If a seed of grain does not go into the earth and come to an end, it is still a seed and no more; but through its death it gives much fruit.”

John 12:24

Lee Ann Tucker 1968-1987

Josie V. Woody 1923-1987

“In the depth of your hopes and desires lies your silent knowledge of the beyond; And like seeds dreaming beneath the snow your heart dreams of spring. Trust the dreams, for in them is hidden the gate of eternity.”

The Prophet by Kahlil Gibran

Joseph Stephen Noser 1965-1986

Nothing Gold Can Stay

Nature's first green is gold,
Her hardest hue to hold.
Her early leaf's a flower;
But only so an hour.
Then leaf subsides to leaf.
So Eden sank to grief,
So dawn goes down to day.
Nothing gold can stay.

Robert Frost

FAVORITE PHOTOS

"Well, it's the end of another year here at B.S.C. I can relax now and look fondly back at all the late nights spent here in this room. I had a tremendous amount of help from my staff and friends. I could never have done it alone (and I never intended to either!)"

"I hoped this yearbook has captured what it was like at Birmingham-Southern in the academic year of 1986-87. I tried to show that student life and the different activities here on campus are what 'Southern is all about. Greeks and other organizations play a major role in our lives. It seems that everyone on and off campus is very involved in something whether it's maintaining a 4.0 G.P.A. or an active social life or both."

"This is a growing school and a large part of it is the growing city of Birmingham. I've lived in Birmingham for most of my life and although I do complain about it sometimes (and we all do), I have a great fondness for it. The novelist, Willie Morris, once said that all Southerners would eventually return to the South if they ever left it. I believe that most of the 'Southerners will."
